"The illiterate of the 21st century will not be those who cannot read and write, but those who cannot learn, unlearn, and relearn." - Alvin Toffler

As we progress into the 21st century, the education landscape is constantly evolving around us. With current skill sets that become rapidly obsolete with each new wave of technological advances, there is a pressing need to train our students to be able to adopt new technical skills and competencies to stay competitive in the workforce. In today's society, it is the inability to move beyond one's basic education, to unlearn the obsolete and relearn the relevant, which ultimately renders someone illiterate.

At Principals Academy, we believe in the importance of imparting to people the ability to learn, unlearn and relearn, allowing them to constantly reinvent themselves in an act of perpetual continuous learning. Most of all, we believe that his revolution in educating our young must begin with our educators and parents. Through partnerships with renowned universities, trainers and resource providers, we strive to provide a wide range of teaching resources, training sessions and academic programmes aimed at improving the way we teach our students how to teach themselves.

I invite you to join us in our efforts to enhance the way we learn, unlearn and relearn. We offer courses and resources that are catered to Educators, Prospective Educators and Parents of different levels that will revolutionize the way we view education, as well as how we teach our students. This site contains a wealth of information that encapsulates our corporate vision to empower our education professionals with the capability to research, innovate, pioneer and implement programmes beneficial to their environment. Please feel free to surf around – I am confident that you will find something of use to you.

Your sincerely,
